Negotiation with France.

CONTINUED.

(No. 67.)

Extract of a dispatch from Lord Whitworth to Lord Hawkesbury, dated Paris, Wednesday evening, May 4, 1803.

"I am this moment come from M. de Talleyrand. The inclosed note will show your Lordship, that the idea which has been thrown out, is to give Malta to Russia.

My only inducement for having undertaken to refer again to your Lordship, is to avoid every reproach of precipitation.
The difference will be but five days, and I have declared that I see so many objections to the plan, that although I would not refuse their solicitation to send it, I could give no hope whatever of its being accepted as a ground of negotiation.

Inclosure referred to in No. 67.
The undersigned has submitted to the first consul his Britannic majesty's ambasadors note of the 3d inst.

After the last communication addressed to his excellency, it is more difficult to conceive how great, a powerful and enlightened nation can be willing to take upon itself to declare war which would be accompanied by such heavy calamities, and the cause of which would be so insignificant, the object in question being a miserable rock.

His excellency must have been aware that the twofold necessity of making an agreement with the guaranteeing powers of the treaty of Amiens, and of not violating a compact in the execution of which the honor of France, the security for the future, and the good faith of the diplomatic intercourse between the nations of Europe, were so deeply interested, had imposed a law upon the French government of discarding every proposition diametrically contrary to the treaty of Amiens. Nevertheless the first consul, accustomed for two months to make every species of sacrifice for the maintenance of peace, would not reject a Mezzotermino of a nature to conciliate the interests and dignity of the two countries.

His Britannic Majesty appears to have been of opinion, that the Neapolitan garrison which was to have been placed at Malta, would not afford a sufficient force for securing the actual independence of the Island.

This motive being the only one which can explain his majesty's refusal to evacuate the island, the first Consul is ready to consent that the island of Malta shall be placed in the hands of one of the three powers who have guaranteed its independence, either contracting or acceding to the treaty of Amiens, to consent to it.

Were it possible that this proposition should not be accepted, it would be manifested not only that England never intended to comply with the terms of the treaty of Amiens, but that she has not been actuated by good faith in any of her demands, and that in proportion as France conceded one point, the British government advanced another. If this should be demonstrated, the first consul will at least have given another proof of his sincerity, of his anxiety to devise the means of avoiding war, of his eagerness to embrace them, and of the value which he would place on their being adopted.

(No. 68.)

Downing Street, May 7, 1803.

My Lord,

Your excellency's dispatches have been received, and laid before the king.

The propositions which have been made to you on the part of the French government could have induced your excellency to delay your departure until the return of the messenger, Sylvester; are in every respect so loose, indefinite, unsatisfactory, and fall so short of the just pretensions of his majesty, that it is impossible that the French government could have expected them to have been accepted. During the whole of the discussions which have lately occurred, his majesty has had a right to consider himself in the character of the injured party. No means have been omitted on his part to induce the French government to make full and early explanation of their views, and to afford to his majesty that satisfaction and security to which he considered himself to be entitled.
It was in consequence of the apparent determination of the French government to evade all discussion on the points of difference between the two countries, that his majesty was induced to state the grounds on which, according to its views, an arrangement might be concluded satisfactory to both governments; and he accordingly authorized your excellency to communicate the three projects which at different times I had forwarded to you.

Until the very moment when your excellency was about to leave Paris, the French government have avoided making any distinct proposition for the settlement of the differences between the two countries; and when, at the very instant of your departure, the French government felt themselves compelled to bring forward some proposition to a part only of the subject in discussion, and on that part of it, what they have brought forward is wholly inadmissible.

The French government proposed that his majesty should give up the island of Malta to a Russian, Austrian, or Prussian garrison. If his majesty could be disposed to waive his demand for a temporary occupation of the island of Malta, the emperor of Russia would be the only sovereign to whom, in the present state of Europe, he could consent that the island should be assigned; and his majesty has certain and authentic information that the emperor of Russia would on no account consent to garrison Malta. Under these circumstances his majesty perseveres in his determination to adhere to the substance of his third project as his Ultimatum. As however, the principal objection stated by the French government to his majesty's proposition is understood to be confined to the insertion of an article in a public treaty by which his majesty shall have a right to remain in the possession of the island of Malta, for a definite number of years, his majesty will consent that the number of years (being in no case less than ten) may be stated in a secret article; and the public articles may be agreed to conform-ably to the inclosed project. By this expedient, the supposed point of honor of the French government might be saved. The independence of the island of Malta would, in principle, be acknowledged, and the temporary occupation of his majesty would be to depend alone on the present state of the island of Lampedosa.

You may propose this idea to M. Talleyrand, at the same time assuring him, that his majesty is determined to adhere to the substance of his ultimatum. And if you shall not be able to conclude the minute of an arrangement on this principle, you will on no account remain in Paris more than thirty-six hours after the receipt of this dispatch.

I observe by your dispatch, you did not consider yourself as authorized to deliver to the French government any note or project in writing. The words of my dispatch were, that you were to communicate the terms officially, which left it at your own discretion to communicate them verbally, or in writing as you might judge most expedient. You were certainly right in communicating them, in the first instance, verbally; but as so much stress has been laid by M. Talleyrand on this distinction, it is important that I should inform you, that his majesty neither had nor has any objection to your delivering the inclosed project as an ultimatum, accompanied by a short note in writing.

I cannot conclude this dispatch without recalling again your attention to the conduct of the French minister at Hanburgh, and referring you to my instructions, by which you should abstain from concluding the arrangement, unless you have received from M. Talleyrand an assurance that his conduct would be publicly disavowed.

I have the honor to be &c.

(Signed)

HAWKESBURY.

To his excellency Lord Whitworth, K.
B. &c.

(No. 69.)

Extract of a dispatch from Lord Whitworth, to Lord Hawkesbury dated Paris, May 9.

The messenger Sylvester is arrived with your Lordship's dispatch, No. 15 of the 7th of May.

As soon as I received your Lordship's instructions I prepared a translated copy of the project furnished by your Lordship and a short note, with which it is my intention to accompany the communication.

I then sent a person to M. de Talley-rand, to know when I could see him, and I was informed that he was at St. Cloud.
I soon after learnt, that he was gone there in consequence of the accident which happened yesterday to the First Consul. I understood that no bad consequences are likely to ensue & that he is able to transact business. I cannot however expect to see M. Talleyrand before to-morrow morning. Although this circumstance may cause a delay of a few hours, your Lordship may be assured that the execution of those instructions with which you have furnished me, shall not be protracted. I shall leave Paris most assuredly, or have concluded a satisfactory arrangement, within the time specified by your Lordship, reckoning from the moment of my being able to make an official communication, instead of that of the receipt of your Lordship's letter.

NEW-YORK, August 1.

Our correspondent at Gibraltar, under date of the 10th June, writes as follows:

"Markets here are very dull for all kinds of provisions. Flour has not even a nominal price; between 18 and 20,000 barrels are now afloat in the Bay, and fresh cargoes arrive almost daily. There are likewise in the port of Lisbon, 60,000 barrels, in Barcelona 20,000, and 30,000 in Leghorn; making together, in only four ports in this neighbourhood, 140,000 bbls. of American flour.

"Lord Nelson arrived here on the 4th instant in the Amphion frigate. He had given the command of his ship (the Victory, a three decker) to Admiral Cornwallis, whom he left at sea in chase of some of "the enemy's" vessels, and came in the Amphion, bringing with him the official declaration of war and three French prizes.

"It is reported here that the frigate Juno and a Brig of War are captured off Toulon by a French squadron. There is a French 74 in Ceuta. Two sloops of war went from this port to watch her; and on the 7th inst. a tremendous cannonading was distinctly heard, so that we believe an engagement has taken place between them.

"Same day a French barque was bro't in, a prize. The crew rose on the prize-master, as the English sailors were towing the vessel round Europa Point; tied him to the main rigging, and secured the men as they came up the ship's sides. They would have carried her off, but had left their colours flying under the English jack, and were seen by the frigate. When the boats from the frigate hove in sight, the crew of the prize made no resistance, but surrendered immediately.

"A day or two ago most of the crew of the frigate Resistance arrived here. She ran on a rock off Cape St. Mary's in a fog, and was lost. The commander justifies himself by saying the master had altered the vessels course during the night without his knowledge. They are bound to Malta for trial.

"Since the 15th of April the following vessels have arrived and sailed: brig Mary Louisa, Farrer, from Leghorn, sailed for Norfolk about the 20th April. April 24th, arrived sloop Stork, Foster, of Boston, from Cadiz; sailed again for Cadiz 13th May. April 24th, arrived ship Trent, Kinsman, from Baltimore; sailed 14th May. Brig Traveller, Taylor, sailed from Alicante for Boston 30th April. Brig Fox, Lock, from Boston, sailed 1st June for Cadiz, thence to proceed to Russia. Brig Hopewell, sailed for Cadiz June 1st. Ship Franklin, Conklin, of Philadelphia, from Alexandria, Virg. arrived, and sailed for Barcelona 23d May. Schr. Betsey, Jones, pened yesterday to the First Consul. I understood that no bad consequences are likely to ensue & that he is able to transact business. I cannot however expect to see M. Talleyrand before to-morrow morning. Although this circumstance may cause a delay of a few hours, your lordship may be assured that the execution of those instructions with which you have furnished me, shall not be protracted. I shall leave Paris most assuredly, or have concluded a satisfactory arrangement, within the time specified by your lordship, reckoning from the moment of my being able to make an official communication, rather than from that of the receipt of your Lordship's letter.

Our correspondent at Gibraltar, under date of the 10th June, writes as follows:

"Markets here are very dull for all kinds of provisions. Flour has not even a nominal price; between 18 and 20,000 barrels are now afloat in the Bay, and fresh cargoes arrive almost daily. There are likewise in the port of Lisbon, 60,000 barrels, in Barcelona 20,000, and 30,000 in Leghorn; making together, in only four ports in this neighbourhood, 140,000 bbls. of American flour.

"Lord Nelson arrived here on the 4th instant in the Amphion frigate. He had given the command of his ship (the Victory, a three decker) to Admiral Cornwallis, whom he left at sea in chase of some of the enemy's vessels, and came in the Amphion, bringing with him the official declaration of war and three French prizes.

"It is reported here that the frigate Juno and a Brig of War are captured off Toulon by a French squadron. There is a French 74 in Ceuta. Two sloops of war went from this port to watch her; and on the 7th inst. a tremendous cannonading was distinctly heard, so that we believe an engagement has taken place between them.

"Same day a French barque was bro't in, a prize. The crew rose on the prize-master, as the English sailors were towing the vessel round Europa Point; tied him to the main rigging, and secured the men as they came up the ship's sides. They would have carried her off, but had left their colours flying under the English jack, and were seen by the frigate. When the boats from the frigate hove in sight, the crew of the prize made no resistance, but surrendered immediately.

"A day or two ago most of the crew of the frigate Resistance arrived here. She ran on a rock off Cape St. Mary's in a fog, and was lost. The commander justifies himself by saying the master had altered the vessels course during the night without his knowledge. They are bound to Malta for trial.

"Since the 15th of April the following vessels have arrived and sailed: brig Mary Louisa, Farrer, from Leghorn, sailed for Norfolk about the 20th April. April 24th, arrived sloop Stork, Foster, of Boston, from Cadiz; sailed again for Cadiz 13th May. April 24th, arrived ship Trent, Kinsman, from Baltimore; sailed 14th May. Brig Traveller, Taylor, sailed from Alicante for Boston 30th April. Brig Fox, Lock, from Boston, sailed 1st June for Cadiz, from thence to proceed to Russia. Brig Hopewell, sailed for Cadiz June 1st. Ship Franklin, Conklin, of Philadelphia, from Alexandria, Virg. arrived, and sailed for Barcelona 23d May. Schr. Betsey, Jones, from Naples for Boston. June 1st, brig Fargo, Smith, from New York, arrived here the 25th March; but being disappointed in the market, went to Lisbon, where they were found worse, 60,000 barrels of our being then in the river; returned, and went to Malaga; sold part, and on the 25th May returned here with 500 barrels, which were sold at 7 1/2 dols.

"On the 2d instant arrived here the ship Thomas, Vickery from Norfolk; ship Ulysses, Mugford, from N. York, sailed for Marseilles on the 6th June; she was out for Lisbon, but came here on account of the markets, which at Lisbon are very bad. Ship Mars, Lord, from Philadelphia, sailed for Barcelona, 6th June: she did not come to anchor, but was laid off and on for a little time. Ship Hiram, Fullerton, of Philadelphia, sailed for Leghorn, June 3d. Ship Union, Hodges, of Salem, for a market, sailed June 6th. Ship Rover, Heard, from Alexandria, and brig American Hero, Masters, from New York, arrived on the 5th inst.

"Since the 7th instant, have arrived the brig Hunter, of Baltimore, from Cadiz with flour; ship South Carolina, from Barcelona, for Norfolk; ship —, Joseph, for Barcelona, for Salem, all to sail the first easterly wind; and two prizes."

NORFOLK, (Vir.) July 26.

The next meeting of Congress will be a period big with the fate of the United States. "Tis her interest to steer clear of any dispute with either of the contending powers in Europe, and by that means insure the Carrying Trade to herself, whilst they are at war. That part of the cession of Louisiana which stipulates, that New Orleans shall be a free port for France and Spain, to the exclusion of other nations, is a serious subject for Congress to deliberate upon; for England, if the treaty is so ratified, will not be on a footing with the most favoured nation. The calling of Congress, therefore, is a very proper step on the part of the President of the United States.

Extract from a letter to a respectable merchant of Philadelphia, dated Port au Prince, July 15, 1803.

"The English have taken a number of French national ships—the Creole frigate, with Gen. Mergan and 500 troops on board—La Mignonne corvette, the brig Lody, &c. &c.

Extract of a letter from Mr. J. Beeley, proprietor of the American Coffee House at Cape Francois, to the Editor of the N. York Mercantile Advertiser, dated July 14, 1803.

"Every thing here is in a state of suspense respecting War or Peace. Three English 74's and six frigates blockade this port. They capture all French vessels, and order them for Jamaica. Not less than 20 sail have been taken and sent thither within the last 15 days. Some few Americans have escaped; but those which have arrived were chased close in with the harbor. We understand the English commander on this station has orders to capture all French vessels bound in or out of this port. The government appears to be much alarmed. In consequence, the duty is taken off all American produce.

"A census of the inhabitants was taken yesterday, that provisions may be equally distributed. A number of French vessels have been cut out of Jeremie by the English. We have two 74's and 4 frigates in this port, which are preparing for France with all possible dispatch. A hot press of French seamen has taken place both in the harbour and on the shore. You may expect to hear of an engagement before long.

"All kinds of American produce have taken an uncommon rise. Flour is 22 dollars per barrel by the cargo, pork 25, beef 16, rice 10 cents, lard 18, butter 25, lumber 38 dollars per 1000.

"The sch'r Fair Trader, Gardiner, arrived this day from Philadelphia; and the brig Three Brothers, O'Neil, from Baltimore."

THAT country must be in a very low debased political state, one would think, which can afford its political writers no better or worthier subject for discussion than the paltry peculum—the miserable more or less of the salaries of its officers. The present administration came into power with the deceptive cant of poor economy in their mouths, and they continue to bawl out "Poverty, Poverty," like blind beggars in the street, to the annoyance of all that hear them—but at the same time to their own emolument. Like the Paquirs of the East, and the begging Friars of Popish countries, they preach and profess poverty while their garments are embossed with concealed treasure quilted in clumsily to look like patches. Yet it is not surprising that they should at last believe that there is nothing which so much demands attention as those things, when it is their nature as well as their habit to have themselves nothing else in view but the emoluments of office.—Like pedants of every kind they can scarcely bring themselves to talk out of their bobby horse. In short, salary, office, fees, emoluments—and all that stuff is the Latin of those LINGOS—it occupies all their thoughts by day, it makes up the patch work of their dreams by night—it is their all in all—and they would make us believe that it is the all in all of the state too. Economy they would have it thought is the universal panacea—like a certain Frenchman, who undertook to prove that dancing would enable a man to do any thing and every thing in life well; though he forgot that it could not make himself wise. In short, economy, beggarly economy, with its mumping cant was to supply the place of wisdom, fortitude, energy, knowledge, and every other desideratum in a state. We much fear too it is all they will give us for them.

When the renowned Sextus Quintus was a humble Cardinal, he, to show his humility, hung a net up in his room, as if to tell every one the meanness of his descent. Economy and humility were the virtues he affected too. At length, by a masterly stratagem of the beggar-trick kind, he got himself elected Pope—and he pulled down the net. On being interrogated by a friend why he did so, he replied, with a sardonic grin—"I have caught the fish!" This is strongly indicative of the bold intrepid spirit which distinguished that extraordinary man. But other spirits actuate our fishermen's sons in America—now that they have caught the fish, they love the net so much that they must be holding it up to view. They must, at least weekly, if not daily, remind the people of America, what silly gulls they must have been to be cajoled by such bungling beggarly devices.

We are led into these animadversions by a piece taken from a northern paper.—Those apothecaries who, poorly as their shop is stored "with beggarly accounts of empty boxes," can make up large periodical bills with "ditto repeated," are continually lugging forth again and again to the public, the jejune subject of salaries, which has over and over again been laid asleep. One would think they did it from a perverse malign disposition, to give the federalists the mortification of following them over the same dirty, beaten ground. If this be their design they shall be gratified, for never shall they move in it without our following them; and we assure them that we shall do it with infinite disgust and mortification.

It seems, from the piece to which we allude, that the democrats are now willing to admit that the federalists did not grant too high salaries. When the salaries were first granted they were opposed, they were abused, they were stigmatized, as excessive, extravagant jobs, and frauds upon the public, by every angry democrat in and out of Congress. Nothing could equal the clamour that was raised against them from one end of the union to the other. Observe! the federalists were then in office! An election came on—that charge was made an electioneering instrument, and by that and such kind of instruments the anti-federalists got into power. Now mark how a simple truth shall expose them. They no sooner go into power than, so far from lessening or foregoing any part of the salaries they so virulently censured, they actually revive the law which had then expired; and give to themselves the full amount of the sums which they persuaded the people were too great for their adversaries. In a word, they have openly avowed and imposed upon the people of America this most abominable and unjust sentiment—"That the same salaries which were a great deal too much for the offices of state when in the hands of federalists, are little enough in all-conscience for the same officers when in the hands of democrats."—Is this honor? Is this fair play? Is this justice, or even common honesty?—Yes—it is, of one kind: It is true democratic honour, fair play, justice and honesty.

FARM,

called Mount Salus, alias Millthorpe, lying in Fairfax county, on Difficult and Wolfe Traps; containing by deed 550 acres, and by survey 673 acres.
 The mansion house is on a high, healthy and agreeable situation, convenient to which are springs of good water. The house is 40 by 18 feet, two rooms on a floor, with a nine feet passage and stair case, 2 brick chimneys, with a fire place to each room, a piazza the whole length of the front, a cellar 40 by 18, walled with stone and divided into two apartments. There are several small buildings, near the mansion house and garden. There are, also, a valuable merchant and grist mill, saw mill, distillery, miller's house and overseer's house. The mill house is 40 by 30, two story high, half the lower story of stone, the other part of wood, and covered with shingles.
 There are one pair of Burr and one pair of Cologne stones, three bolting cloths almost new, one screen, all now in use in manufacturing wheat and grinding grist.
 The still house 40 by 30, one story high, walls of stone and shingled roof, the floors planked, the upper laid for malting grain, and troughs fixed round the whole house constructed to carry water to every vessel which may need it. Three stills and one boiler can be worked to advantage in the said house. The waters of Wolfe Trap, on which the mill and saw mill stand, are constant streams. The situation for country customers, or purchasing wheat, is exceeded by none in the county or neighbourhood, not being more than 17 miles from Alexandria or George Town, where there are excellent markets for country produce of every description, and about 19 miles from Washington. The land is fertile and productive, and the soil well adapted to receive improvement from the use of plaster of Paris. There are upwards of 1000 pannels of fence on the land, and about 160 or 170 acres of well timbered land belonging to the tract. There have been nearly 20 acres of timothy made, lying on Wolf Trap and Difficult runs; 50 acres more may be made at a small expense. This farm enjoys many natural advantages, which are unnecessary for us to mention, it being taken for granted that every person wishing to buy such property will avail themselves of an opportunity of viewing the premises, previous to the day of sale, capt. James Wiley, residing near the land, will show the premises, and also a plat of the survey, which is left with him for the information of those concerned.

The title papers will be exhibited on the day of sale.

A VALUABLE MILL
FOR SALE.

THE subscriber wishes to sell his MILL, known by the name of Clifton Mill, within two and an half miles of Dumfries, on the waters of Quantico, which is as constant a stream as any in this part of the country, and in an exceeding healthy situation; very conveniently situated to a fine wheat country, not being more than half a mile out of the way, in going to Dumfries, from the main road leading from Fauquier Court-House, Centerville &c. (and by some thought not any out of the way at all) and a very good road to it. There are, if the purchaser chooses, 227½ acres of land which may go with mill, (except one acre which will be reserved) or a smaller quantity as may be agreed on. The mill is an over-shot, with a wheel of 20 feet 9 inches and 4 feet head, with two pair of Stones. One pair of French burrs of 5 feet, the other of Cologne, with every apparatus necessary for carrying on merchant business to the best advantage. The mill house is fifty feet long and twenty seven feet wide, two stories high, with a small kiln for drying corn, together with barn, stable, cow house and lumber house, convenient to the mill. A convenient dwelling house, (not quite finished) with a kitchen, meat and corn house; the whole of which have been built within 7 years past. There are two very thriving young orchards of peach and other fruit trees. It was supposed, had not the frost killed the fruit this spring, upwards of 100 gallons of brandy might have been made from them. Should the whole of the land be required with the mill, there is another small house, kitchen and meat house, at a short distance from the former.

The situation of this property must render it a desirable acquisition to any person inclined to engage in this line of business, particularly so as it is situated so near tide water. It is deemed unnecessary to say any thing more respecting the premises, as it is presumed any person inclined to purchase would wish to see them. Nothing would induce me to part with this valuable property, but the pressing demands against me which I am anxious to discharge, therefore a great bargain may be expected. Any further information may be known on application to Winchester Coffee House & Hotel.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has opened a house of accommodation for gentlemen travelers. He flatters himself that his exertions to give general satisfaction will entitle him to the patronage of the public. The newspapers from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Alexandria, Richmond, Norfolk & Charleston, (S. C.) are regularly taken. He avails himself of this opportunity to return his sincere thanks to those who have honored him with their custom, and assures them that a continuance of their favors will always act as a stimulus to further exertions. He has good, stable, hay and grain, with a trusty hostler.

Fifteen Dollars Reward

RANAWAY from the subscriber, in the month of July, 1802, about the 28th or 30th day, a yellow girl about 12 years of age, by the name of AILCEY, which I bought of James Wilson and Robert I.
 Taylor, of this place. She is a girl of a bold countenance, tolerable straight hair, quite a large mouth, and a small flesh mold on one side or the other of her face, just by her nose; no other marks that I recollect. It is more than probable that she is now lurking in the neighborhood of Alexandria, as her mother lives with Major Wm. Reily of that place. The above reward will be paid for apprehending and securing the said girl so that I get her again.
